

Gio Albert Caballero

Gilman International Scholarship Alumni
Ambassador

Taiwan, 2018

“Invest in relationships and experiences, and view the world with gratitude.”

At National Taiwan University’s College of Medicine, Gio participated in cancer treatment research. His project aimed to demonstrate that a newly synthesized drug bound to a novel target site in cells induced cell-senescence.

His study abroad program included field trips that highlighted Taiwanese culture and growing industries at the forefront of the global market.

Intrigued by Taiwan’s utilization of small- to medium-sized businesses for its growing economy, Gio developed an interest in consumerism. Currently a graduate student at New York University, he studies consumer psychology. Gio’s goals are to be proficient in consumer behavior research and to gain a foothold in the technology industry. He hopes to run a consulting firm that can help small- to medium-sized companies compete against larger, dominant companies.

- ★ Veteran of the United States Army
- ★ Volunteered for American Institute in Taiwan as a Youth Camp Mentor
- ★ Conducted career-oriented cancer research in Taiwan
- ★ Researched with the New York University Motivation Lab

 Gilman Scholarship[★]

