Calling all Gilman and CLS alumni!

Are you or fellow students interested in learning about the behind-the-scenes work that goes into building international relationships and tackling global issues? Do you want to hear what it's like to work as a diplomat straight from the source?

USA Study Abroad, part of the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs, and its Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship Program are pleased to invite current recipients and alumni of the Gilman Program and the State Department's Critical Language Scholarship (CLS) Program to attend the final seminar as part of the Inside U.S. Foreign Policy series and gain an inside look at how the State Department designs and implements U.S. foreign policy around the world. American undergraduate and graduate students from all fields of study and backgrounds are also invited to attend.

Participants will learn directly from civil and foreign service officers about:

- the State Department's foreign policy goals for Europe,
- how offices in Washington, D.C. and U.S. embassies and consulates overseas work to further these goals, and
- how this work impacts Americans.

The seminar will also include a panel of Gilman alumni working in the region, who will discuss their careers, and a breakout networking session. The seminar will last three hours and be followed by an optional 30-minute informational session on a variety of careers within the U.S. State Department.

Please join us for the final event in the series!
